

I read heard on the Radio this morning that ABC was not going to air Saving Private Ryan do to fears of fines from the FCC. As a Gulf War Vet i was disgusted that one of the freedoms that i served to protect is being killed here at home because some appointed government body feels that the general public can not decide what they can watch. I have two children and I decide what kind of TV they watch. Is there too much violence on TV, yes. As a responsible adult i decide what i want to watch and how much you do not need to tell me.
